- (iii) Attempt questions based on specific instructions for each part.

SECTION-A (20 Marks)

(READING SKILLS)

1. Read the passage given below:

1. Hiking is a great source of pleasure to us besides being beneficial for health. Once we leave the crowded streets of a city and go out for a walking tour away from the mad world, we really feel free. The open air has a bracing effect on the mind. The congestion of the city, the uproar and tumult, the intolerable noise of traffic, the hectic daily routine, all these are forgotten and the mind is at ease. We then feel like running, leaping, singing and laughing. We travel merrily mile after mile in the company of friends and associates.
2. Hiking takes us in the midst of nature. The sight of waterfalls, flowers, streams, trees and bushes is pleasing. A connect is established between us and nature. Various sounds of nature, like the murmur of a brook or the song of a bird, acquire a new meaning and significance to us.
3. You enjoy the beauty of nature. Minute observations like a snake casting its slough, a mouse peeping out of its hole, a squirrel leaping about on the branches of a tree, a bird flying past us, all these are noticed and they arouse our interest. We have no business worries, no fear of the examination, no anxiety about the home. We have leisure to stand, to walk and talk. It is more thrilling and pleasurable to hike in a mountainous region than in the plains. The excitement of climbing up to the top of a hill, the adventure of coming down a slope, the grandeur of sunset behind a mountain - All these sights lend a rare charm and interest to our journey.
4. We walk along a zigzag motor road or cut across a mountain path in search of adventure. We may have bright sunny weather or might get caught in a shower of rain. We may look below us into the yawning chasm or up at the mountain peak. The feeling of unlimited freedom makes our hearts leap with joy.
5. Hiking is one of the healthiest sports. It ensures a complete escape from the urgent and busy activities of life and therefore gives solace to our brain. It regains its lost energy and is able to do twice as much work as before.
6. The fresh air, beautiful mountains, majestic trees, chirping sound of birds make one's mind and soul at peace with nature.

Based on your understanding of the passage, answer the questions given below.

2. Read the extract given below :

1. Necessity is indeed the mother of invention. When areas in and around Leh began to experience water shortages, life didn't grind to a halt. Why ? Because a retired civil engineer in the Jammu and Kashmir Government came up with the idea of artificial glaciers.
2. Ladakh, a cold desert at an altitude of 3,000 – 3,500 meters above sea level, has a low average annual rainfall rate of 50 mm. Glaciers have always been the only source of water. Agriculture is completely dependent on glacier melt, unlike the rest of river/monsoon-fed India. But over the years, with increasing effects of climate change, rainfall and snowfall patterns have been changing, resulting in severe shortage and drought situations. Given the extreme winter conditions, the window for farming is usually limited to one harvest season.
3. It is located between the natural glacier above and the village below. The one closer to the village and lowest in altitude melts first, providing water during April-May, the crucial sowing season. Further, layers of ice above melt with the increasing temperature, thus ensuring continuous supply to the fields. Therefore, farmers have been able to manage two crops instead of one. It costs about 1,50,000 and above to create a glacier.
4. Fondly called the glacier man, he has designed over 15 artificial glaciers in and around Leh since 1987. In recognition of his pioneering effort, he was conferred the Padma Shri by The President of India.
5. There are a few basic steps followed while creating an artificial glacier. River or stream water at high altitude is diverted to a shaded area of the hill, facing north, where the winter sun is blocked by a ridge or a mountain range. At the start of winter i.e., in November, the diverted water is made to flow on sloping hills facing distribution channels. Stone embankments are built at regular intervals which impede the flow of water, making shallow pools which freeze, forming a cascade of ice along the slope. Ice formation continues for 3-4 months resulting in a large accumulation of ice which is referred to as an 'artificial glacier'.

Subject : Raising concern about inculcating reading habits among children

Sir

This is to hereby draw your kind attention to the neglectful attitude of children towards reading. Youngsters these days carry tremendous academic pressure on their shoulders, such that they hardly get time to read books or novels. Moreover, smart phones and social media exposure do not leave any time and scope for reading in their already busy schedule.

In such a scenario, we as parents have a greater role to play. Through developing reading culture at home, initiating discussions on their latest read and even enrolling our children in reading clubs, we can help them build a strong foundation in their early ages.

Therefore, I hope that publishing about this crucial concern in the columns of your renowned paper helps students develop stronger habit and thereby lead a smarter life.

Your truly,

Sushila

5. Attempt any one from A and B given below :

- (A) The given pie-chart shows how water is consumed in households in a metropolitan city in India. Study the information carefully and write a paragraph analysing the given pie-chart data. [5]

For Visually impaired candidates.

List three ways in which we waste water and the ways how we can save water.

Sol. Suggested Value Points:

- Introduce the chart
- Describe the use cases of water one by one
- Compare the use cases
- Give insights based on the data

Title: Water Usage Distribution in the Households of a Metropolitan City

The given pie-chart depicts the distribution of various ways water is consumed in the households of a metropolitan city in India. It is evident that those households use more water (26% of total usage) in the toilet than any other activity. Washing clothes comes second with 22% usage. 17% water flows through the faucets and 16% through the showers. Surprisingly 14% is wasted through leaks. While a mere 1% is used for dishwashing, 2% is used for bath and another 2% for other purposes. To save water households of this city needs to cut down their water consumption in washing clothes by taking alternative measures. Water flowing through faucets, showers and toilet outlets needs to be checked by installing auto-stop mechanisms. In addition to that repairing the leakages will also help save a considerable amount of water.

Sol. Suggested Value Points:

- Introduce the chart
- Give a comparative account of how internet is used by various age groups
- Give insights based on the data

Title: Age-Wise Description of People Using the Internet

The given chart gives us age-wise details of various purposes people use the internet for. Teenagers use the internet mostly to play online games whereas others use the internet predominantly for product research. It is not surprising to see that the teenagers have no interest in product research when it comes to surfing the internet and only 5% of them surf the internet to search for people. In general, the internet sees people mostly looking for news and products. Among all age groups people in their 60s and above use the internet rarely when it comes to downloading content. The most even distribution of people searching the internet for all the use cases is seen in the age groups of 20s and 30s.

- (b) • The statement "No one is born hating another person because of the colour of his skin, or his background or his religion" is a powerful assertion that emphasizes the idea that hate and prejudice are learned behaviours and not innate characteristics. This statement is supported by the life and struggles of Nelson Mandela, as portrayed in his autobiography "Long Walk to Freedom".
- Nelson Mandela was born into a country that was divided by racial segregation and discrimination. As a black man, he experienced first-hand the injustices and inequality of the apartheid system in South Africa. However, as a child, he was not born with the hatred and prejudice that characterized the society in which he lived. Instead, he was taught these beliefs through the social and political systems that existed at the time.
- Throughout his life, Mandela fought against the system of apartheid and worked tirelessly to end the division and discrimination that existed in South Africa. He understood that hate and prejudice were learned behaviours and that it was possible to overcome them through education, understanding, and compassion.

- Mandela's philosophy of non-violence and reconciliation was grounded in the belief that people could change and that it was possible to overcome hate and prejudice. He believed that through education and dialogue, it was possible to break down the barriers that existed between people and create a more just and equal society.
- In conclusion, Nelson Mandela's life and struggles support the assertion that "No one is born hating another person because of the colour of his skin, or his background or his religion". Instead, hate and prejudice are learned behaviours that are taught through social and political systems. Mandela's philosophy of non-violence and reconciliation is a testament to the power of education, understanding, and compassion to overcome hate and prejudice and create a more just and equal society.
